In response to its design, the generation would be called the "Shoebox Ford", denoting its slab-sided "pontoon" design. While the design theme had been in use since the late 1920s to streamline automobiles, the 1949 Ford marked its widest-scale use, removing running boards entirely and integrating front and rear fenders into a single, smooth body form. In other firsts, this generation marked the first use of keyed ignition and the first automatic transmission option in Ford vehicles. For 1950... 022901964a

The River Rouge Complex manufactured most of the components of Ford vehicles, starting with the Model T. Much of the production was devoted to compiling "knock-down kits" that were then shipped in wooden crates to Branch Assembly locations across the United States by railroad and assembled locally, using local supplies as necessary. A few of the original Branch Assembly locations still remain while most have been repurposed or have been demolished and the land reused. Knock-down kits were also shipped internationally until the River Rouge approach was duplicated in Europe and Asia. 022901964a Reese is located on U.S. Highway 175, 20 mi (32 km) northwest of Rusk in northwestern Cherokee County. 022901964a Republicans had gained one seat in the House due to a special election in the 34th district seeing Mayra Flores succeed Filemon Vela and become the first Mexican-born congresswoman.
