“What Colors Do You Mix to Make Brown. There are no standardized names for shades of brown; the same shade may have different names on different color lists, and sometimes one name (such as beige or puce) can refer to several very different colors. Such colors are less saturated than colors perceived to be orange.” Art Studio Life. Browns are usually described as light or dark, reddish, yellowish, or gray-brown. Brown color names are often imprecise, and some shades, such as beige, can refer to lighter rather than darker shades of yellow and red. The X11 color list of web colors has seventeen different shades of brown, but the complete list of browns is much longer. The RGB color model, that generates all colors on computer and television screens, makes brown by combining red and green light at relatively low intensities, with green light being in a lesser proportion than red light.
