Between 1998 and 1999, the company introduced rubberized coir products Starlite and collaborated with Serta (USA), and Dunlopillo (UK), for mattress production. From 2001 to 2003, Sheela Foam established a polyurethane foam-producing plant in Greater Noida and expanded operations to Rajpura, Punjab, and Sikkim. In 2005, Sheela Foam made its first global acquisition by purchasing Joyce Foam, an Australian polyurethane foam manufacturer. Between 2008 and 2010, Sheela Foam received multiple CIO 100 Awards for IT excellence.

Memory foam Newer foams may recover their original shape more quickly. insulation. It is often referred to as "viscoelastic" polyurethane foam, or low-resilience polyurethane foam (LRPu). A memory foam mattress is usually denser than other foam mattresses, making it both more supportive and heavier. Higher-density memory foam softens in reaction to body heat, allowing it to mold to a warm body in a few minutes. The foam bubbles or 'cells' are open, effectively creating a matrix through which air can move. Sheela Foam was established by Indian politician and entrepreneur Sheela Gautam in 1971 in Sahibabad, Uttar Pradesh, focusing initially on polyurethane foam production. In 1994, the company launched its flagship brand, Sleepwell, which became a major mattress brand in India. In 1995, Sheela Foam introduced specialized foam products for the automotive and healthcare industries. 08260260a2 In August 2018, Serta Simmons Bedding, LLC announced a merger with online retailer Tuft & Needle. 08260260a2 The company was founded in 1931 in Illinois as Sleeper, Inc. by 13 mattress manufacturers who licensed the Serta name. Subsequently, eight independent licensees acting like a cooperative owned the company. Afterwards, it was controlled and operated as Serta International by its largest licensee, National Bedding Company, which ultimately held 27 of the 34 U.S. Serta manufacturing licenses. 08260260a2 Foams have numerous applications, including thermal insulation, packaging, flotation devices, sandwich-structured composite materials, fire retardant foams, froth flotation, foam fractionation, and filtration. Common examples are soap foam, the head on beer, bread, bath sponges, and polymer... 08260260a2 In addition to conventional natural fabrics, new forms of synthetic protector or topper have appeared over the years including memory foam and spacer fabrics... 08260260a2 == History == 08260260a2 Memory foam derives its viscoelastic properties from several effects, due to the material's internal structure. The network effect is the force working to restore the foam's structure when it is deformed. This effect is generated by the deformed porous material pushing outwards to restore its structure against an applied pressure. Three effects work against the network effect, slowing the regeneration of the foam's original structure: 08260260a2

The formation, stability and properties of foams are studied in physics, physical chemistry and materials science. Foams are classified as liquid or solid foams, which differ in their formation, structure and physical behaviour. Solid foams may be further divided into open-cell and closed-cell structures that differ in their mechanical and transport properties. 08260260a2 == History == 08260260a2 Foams are formed by dispersing gas into a liquid or solid, typically in the presence of surfactants or other stabilising agents, and their stability depends on factors such as surface tension, the Marangoni effect, drainage, and gas diffusion. 08260260a2

Although the surface of a mattress can be cleaned with a vacuum cleaner, it is very difficult to completely clean most standard mattresses. An unprotected mattress can become marked or stained quite quickly as perspiration produced throughout the night easily passes through a standard cloth sheet and creates a characteristic yellowish-brown tidemark where it's absorbed into the upper surface of the mattress. Mattresses are also susceptible to many other contaminants. 08260260a2 In 2019, it announced plans to expand to 08260260a2 The company was formed when Tempur-Pedic International, a manufacturer of memory foam mattresses, acquired its biggest competitor Sealy Corporation in 2012. It is based in Lexington, Kentucky. 08260260a2 Mattresses are usually placed on top of a bed base which may be solid, as in the case of a platform bed, or elastic, such as an upholstered wood and wire box spring or a slatted foundation. Popular in Europe, a divan incorporates both mattress and foundation in a single upholstered, footed unit. Divans have at least one innerspring layer as well as cushioning materials. They may be supplied with a secondary mattress or a removable "topper". Mattresses may also be filled with air or water, or a variety of natural fibers, such as in futons. Kapok is a common mattress material in Southeast Asia, and coir in South Asia. 08260260a2 The simplest form of a mattress protector is a lightly quilted fitted sheet. It provides minimal protection against liquids and little or no protection from dust mite allergens. 08260260a2 Like a mattress protector/mattress pad/mattress cover (a thin, generally unpadded layer not designed to improve comfort), mattress toppers can be used to protect the mattress from the sleeper or vice versa. Some mattress toppers are machine-washable; covers and fillings are made...

08260260a2 In May 2023, Temper Sealy sought to acquire mattress retailer Mattress Firm for a reported $4 billion. However, in July 2024 the deal was blocked by the United States Federal Trade Commission due to concerns about its impact on competition in the space. The company sued the Federal Trade Commission in October to halt the court proceedings and won the case in January 2025, allowing the deal to go through. 08260260a2 The acquisition was finalized in February 2025 and Tempur Sealy changed its name to Somnigroup International Inc. 08260260a2

Physically, it is a thin mattress, usually 5–10 centimetres (2–4 in) thick. Stand-alone mattresses of this size exist, including futons, and floor beds. Similarly, traditional European beds were made of a stack of mattresses of this size. In contrast, mattress toppers are usually sold for use on top of boxsprings (secured with straps or elasticated cloth corners). They are used to extend the life of the more-expensive boxspring, make a bed warmer or cooler (with airflow, or heat-conductive materials), make a firm bed softer, and for travel and dorms, as they are portable, especially if they are low-density. 08260260a2 Amerisleep was founded in 2010 in Arizona by Firas Kittaneh, Mo Kittaneh, and Joe Holt. 08260260a2 On January 23, 2023, Serta Simmons Bedding filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy.... 08260260a2 Memory foam 08260260a2 == See also == 08260260a2
