Before the European colonization of the Americas, the region of upstate New York was populated by several Native American tribes. It was home to the Iroquois Confederacy, an indigenous confederation of six tribes, known as the Six Nations. Henry Hudson made the first recorded European exploration of the region in 1609, and the Dutch erected Fort Orange (present-day Albany) in 1624, which was the first permanent European settlement in New York. The region saw many battles during the American Revolutionary War, with the Iroquois split between supporters of the loyalists and supporters of the revolutionaries. After the war ended, the 1784 Treaty of Fort Stanwix kicked off a series of treaties and... 22b30dad8c For a time it was known as The Hotel Clarence, named after guardian angel Clarence Odbody from the 1946 film It's a Wonderful Life, and residents claim that when director Frank Capra visited this small Upstate New York town in 1945 he was inspired to model the films' town of Bedford Falls after it.
